BIOGRAPHY

Daniel is ranked as a Leading Junior in both the Legal 500 and Chambers & Partners for intellectual property law. He practices in all areas of intellectual property law, including patents, trade marks, passing off, copyright, registered designs and design rights and confidential information and commercial disputes involving the same. Daniel is also a contributing author to Terrell on the Law of Patents, the leading practitioner textbook on UK patent law. He is frequently instructed on SPC matters and is the Editor of that Chapter.

Daniel has been involved in a wide variety of high profile cases across the breadth of intellectual property, including: TQ Delta v Zyxel (patents, ADSL2/2+, VDSL2 technology); Alcon v Aspire (patents, fluprostenol isopropyl ester); Puma v Nike (trade marks, Footware mark); Nokia v Oppo (patent, 4G LTE transmission; Juve Patent "Top 10 patent case of 2022"); Dr Reddy's and NHS Scotland v Warner-Lambert (patent damages inquiry; selected by The Lawyer as one of the "Top 20 Cases of 2023"); Swatch v Samsung (trade marks, Swiss watch brands; Managing IP "Impact Case of the Year 2024"); Lidl v Tesco (trade marks, passing off and copyright, Tesco's Clubcard; selected by The Lawyer as one of the "Top 10 Appeals of 2024"); M&S v Aldi (registered designs, "light up gin bottles"); Shorts v Google (trade marks and passing off, YouTube Shorts); and Merck Serono (SPCs, cladribine for relapse-remitting multiple sclerosis). Further details and cases can be found below and on his downloadable CV (current as of February 2025).

Daniel was called to the Irish Bar in 2024. He accepts instructions in relation to EU work, including appeals to the General Court and the Court of Justice of the European Union.

Daniel is nominated for "Junior IP Barrister of the Year" by Managing IP (2025). He was nominated for the equivalent award twice by Managing IP (2023 and 2024) and Chambers and Partners (2023).

EDUCATION AND TRAINING

Prior to coming to the Bar, Daniel completed an undergraduate Masters degree in Molecular and Cellular Biochemistry at the University of Oxford, achieving a Distinction in the preliminary examinations and graduating with 1st class (Hons) in 2005. He was the only life scientist accepted onto the Life Sciences Interface Doctoral Training Centre (LSI DTC) programme at the University of Oxford, which provided comprehensive postgraduate training in mathematical, physical, computational and engineering science techniques. As a result of this breadth, he is able to grasp all areas of science and technology.

Daniel subsequently undertook a DPhil (PhD) in Condensed Matter Physics (bionanotechnology) at Oxford titled "DNA Lattices and Protein Arrays: Novel Approaches to Biological Structure Determination", which was awarded in 2010. His DPhil thesis was examined as "exceptional for a PhD student" and "timely, thought-provoking, and ground-breaking". He subsequently continued his research at postdoctoral level and was elected a Fellow of St Cross College, Oxford University.

During his subsequent legal training, Daniel obtained the top merit-based scholarship for both the law conversion (GDL) and Bar training (BPTC) years from Lincoln's Inn. During his GDL year, he won the prestigious ESU-Essex Court Chambers National Mooting Competition and went on to

As a second-year undergraduate student, Daniel developed a keen interest in neuropharmacology. He proposed the notion of complex neuropsychobiological interactions between certain drugs, which rationalised a large amount of experimental data and led to publications in the Journal of Neural Transmission and Journal of Psychopharmacology, where he was attributed.
